Article 26

Educational Process

1. Second cycle study programs consist of 10-14 courses and the thesis for the Master of Science and of 7-8 courses and the microthesis for the Professional Master, which is prepared at the end of the second cycle study programs. Depending on the field of the study programs and in accordance with the objectives of these programs, with a decision of the Academic Senate of EPOKA University, the total number of second cycle study program courses could be higher.

The educational process consists of lectures, projects and studio work, laboratory work, practice, site work, exercises, seminars and other similar works as envisaged by the Curricula.

2. EPOKA University uses the American system to determine course credits and other educational activities. Courses and other activities are also accompanied by credit assessments according to the European System of Accumulating and Transferring Credits (ECTS), in order to enable the recognition of credits and the transfer of students.

From an academic point of view, the assessment of lectures, applications, laboratories, projects, exercises, seminars and workshops is performed based upon the measurement of hours carried out in auditoriums.

According to the American system, the credit value of a particular course or educational activity consists of the total weekly hours of theoretical lectures and half of weekly hours of applications, laboratories, projects and workshop work, during a semester which normally lasts for 14 weeks. Again, according to the American system, credits measure only the work performed in auditorium, laboratories, workshop, etc., and not the work hours necessary for individual study in order to master the course.

According to the European System for Accumulating and Transferring Credits (ECTS), the credit value of a course or an academic activity measures the coursework necessary to successfully complete a particular course and not only the load in the auditorium, laboratory, workshop etc., including also the work hours necessary for individual study in order to master the course. At least 60 ECTS credits should be obtained in one academic year.

It is the responsibility of the EPOKA University's academic staff which teaches a particular course to assign the coursework and to grant the ECTS credit for that course or academic activity.

The level of success of a student is based on the assessment of exams held each semester; exams held at the end of the academic year; course homework, assignments presentations, participation and projects.

Article 27

The right to take an exam

The student has the right to take the exam of a specific course when all the financial liabilities are redeemed.

The student will be refused to take an exam when there are unredeemed financial liabilities.

In case of extraordinary circumstances, if exams or presentations cannot be given on the scheduled date, the Dean – with a proposal of the Head of the Department and course’s lecturer - assigns through a written memo a postponed date, which is announced to the students and the committee.

Courses taught by one lecturer are evaluated only by him/her, however, when courses are taught by more than one lecturer, then, all of them are members of the evaluating team.

Exams are conducted normally in writing. The lecturer of the course may also decide to have a verbal exam, such as a project or homework. In this case, the decision must be announced by the Program Coordinator within two weeks from the beginning of the semester.

Exams are prepared and conducted by the lecturers responsible for teaching that particular course. If the lecturer of the course is not present at EPOKA University on the day of the exam, then, the Head of the Department assigns someone else to conduct the exam.

Article 29

The Announcement of the Exam Results

Exam results are announced within the respective timeframe established in the academic calendar.

Within five days after the announcement of exam results, students have the right to make a request of grade appeal to the Registrar’s Office through which they demand that the exam answer sheets be reviewed. The lecturer of the course reviews the exam answer sheets whether there have been any material errors in the assessment of the concerned student and the application is finalized by the respective Decanate upon a proposal by the Department offering the course. The student is notified of the decision no more than 15 days from the day the request for grade appeal has been submitted.

Article 30

Re-taking a Course

If the student is not successful or does not meet the terms to be successful in a specific course, he/she is required to re-take the course. Those students who intend to improve their CGPA may also re-take a course even if they have passed the course successfully. The last grade received by the student with respect to any course will be valid when calculating the CGPA.

The permission to re-take a course is granted by the academic advisor.

Article 31

Documentation of Assessment

The results are reflected in the assessment report and are recorded in the grades register.

The assessment report is completed by the lecturer at the end of the assessment process and is submitted to the department coordinator no later than two weeks from the date of the exam, or

If in a compulsory course the student receives a FD or FF, he/she is considered as not having passed the course successfully and is obliged to repeat that course. A student who receives FD or FF from an elective course is not obliged to retake the same failed elective course, but he/she must successfully pass all elective courses envisaged in the study program and fulfill all credits designated to elective courses in the study program. If the cumulative general point average is at least 2.00 and the student has no FD and FF, he/she is considered successful. Students should pass all the courses in the study program in order to complete the study program.
- b. For the Master of Science study programs, at the end of the third semester, the student should have a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.00 and no FD and FF in order to be able to take the Thesis.
- c. For the Professional Master study programs, the student shall take the diploma microthesis alongside the other courses in the second semester.

- a. The grade NA is given by the course's lecturer to students who have not complied with the rules of attendance or those who have not met the requirements in relation to practices or the application of courses. When calculating the cumulative grade point average, the grade NA is considered as FF.
- b. The grade I is given by the course's lecturer to that student who because of an illness or another reasonable excuse has not been able to meet the requirements of the course although the student might have been successful during the rest of the year. If in a specific course a student has received the grade I then, within 15 days from the day the grades were submitted to the Department Coordinator, the student is obliged to receive another grade in order to complete the missing part. The grade which will be given instead of I is approved by a decision of the Decanate. Otherwise, the grade I gets converted into a FF. Nevertheless, in cases of long-term illnesses or similar excuses, the grade I can last unchanged up to the time when the registration for the coming semester begins, based on a proposal by the Head of the Department and an approval by the Faculty Decanate.
- c. The grade S is given to a student who has passed the courses which do not affect the cumulative grade point average.
- d. The grade T is given in cases of inter-transfers from another higher education institution or in cases of the assessment of a course passed successfully before the registration at Epoka University, the equivalence of which is accepted based on the proposal by the Scientific Committee of the Department and the approval of the Decanate. In this case, the grade T does not affect the calculation of the cumulative grade point average.

With regard to transfers from one study program to another study program within the institution (intra-transfer), the grade T accompanies the letter grade of the respective course which has been recognized based on the proposal by the Scientific Committee of the Department and the approval of the Decanate. In this case, the letter grade affects the calculation of the cumulative grade point average.

With regard to courses taken during exchange programs, the respective Decanate decides on the equivalence of the credits and the grades received in these courses. The grade T accompanies the letter grade of the respective course which has been recognized based on the approval of the Decanate. In this case, the letter grade affects the calculation of the cumulative grade point average.

- e. The grade U is given to a student who has not passed those courses which do not affect the cumulative grade point average.
- f. The grade P is given to a student who is still taking the courses which do not affect the cumulative grade point average.
- g. The grade EX is given to students who have passed the exemption tests administered by the relevant department with regard to courses specified by the Academic Senate. The EX grade does not affect the cumulative grade point average but it is displayed on the transcript.

h. The grade NI is given with respect to non-credit courses taken within the academic program(s) the student is enrolled at. This grade is indicated on the student's transcript along with the grade in letters the student has received from the relevant course. This grade is not taken into account in enrolled program or related cumulative point average calculations. Courses in which students have scored NI cannot be repeated.

Semester and Cumulative Grade Point Average

A student's Semester Grade Point Average is computed by multiplying the numerical grade received in each course by the number of credits offered for each course, then dividing by the total number of credits attended during the semester.

A student's Cumulative Grade Point Average is computed by multiplying the numerical grade received in each course by the number of credits offered for each course, then dividing by the total number of credits attended. Only courses in the curriculum are considered when the CGPA is computed.

The Semester and Cumulative Grade Point Average is rounded to two decimal places.

Article 39

Article 42

Fulfillment of graduation requirements

In order to meet the graduation requirements, students must complete the minimum required course load and must reach or surpass a Cumulative Grade Point Average (CGPA) level of at least 2.00 without having FD and FF grades.

The student, who successfully completes the credits required as well as the microthesis for a total of 60 ECTS credits, is granted the Professional Master Diploma.

The student, who successfully completes the credits required as well as the thesis for a total of 120 ECTS credits, is granted the Master of Science Diploma.
